[Biography]

Born in Brussels, Oliver Ghnassia-Langbord aka Oliver Lord is a Belgian-French singer and songwriter who lives in London.

Coming from a family of artists; his grandma taught him the piano and his younger sister Blanche made a huge success at Eurovision Song Contest 2017, he grew up surrounded by studies, singing contests, music and travels.

At 18 years old, he goes to London to study English and takes musical singing courses at The Conservatoire of Blackheath, then at 19, takes part in the international singing contest "Hallelujah" taking place near Tel-Aviv in Israel, where he ends up second at the broadcasted grand final.

A year later, he is selected by the singer Lio on The Voice Belgique. Not long afterwards, he integrates the musical Piano-Plage, played in Belgium and France for over a year. At that time, he started dubbing French opening themes and songs in cartoons (Disney, Mattel, Pokémon,... to name just a few of them).

In 2019, Oliver joins the UK based band Miami Vibe 80s as a lead singer and keyboard player
